~~ From The Office ~~

Welcome to a new week.

Tomorrow is our November pizza day. If you ordered the pizza lunch no need to bring a lunch from home. Snacks would still be great!

Tomorrow evening is the college & career info evening. Looking forward to seeing you there.

Have a great week!

Philippians 2: 12-13

November is Reading Month at CCS!

This year, our theme is "Fill Up the Bookshelves!" Throughout November, we'll work together to read books and record them on "book spines." Students will receive these paper book spines from their reading teacher and add them to the bookshelf display in the hallway. If we succeed in filling up our "bookshelves" with all the books read in November, we'll celebrate with a Games Afternoon!

Here's what's in store for our November reading activities:

Guest Readers: Guest readers come to grades 1 - 8 classrooms to read a story, share a bit about themselves and how reading is important in their life and career.

Reading Buddy Meetings: Students in grades 1–12 will meet with their reading buddies on November 4, 13, and 18 to read stories together, with younger students paired with older students. During these times, students will also plan their book character costumes for our end-of-month pancake breakfast.

Pancake Breakfast and Book Character Dress-Up: The reading month festivities will end with our much-anticipated pancake breakfast on Wednesday, November 27, at 8:15 AM. Please make sure your child knows which book character they'll dress up as for the event!

If you have any questions, please reach out to Mrs. Kooiker (tkooiker@cornerstoneschool.us) or Mrs. Groves (jgroves@cornerstoneschool.us). We're looking forward to a fantastic Reading Month filled with stories and excitement!

Lost & Found:

The lost and found will be cleared out and donated soon. Take a look sometime this week to see if anything from your family is there.

There are a lot of sweaters!

Memory Work: Grade 1 & 2: Bible Text: Isaiah 53:7

Next Week: No assigned memory work

BIBLE

Last week Thursday we've had lovely conversations ruminating on Peter walking on water and then sinking in the water, examples of big faith with eyes fixed on Jesus and the next minute little faith looking at the wind and the deep sea. A few hours later a 2nd grade student: "I'm done with my math, may I read my Bible? The Peter story? And soon many students were finished with their math and reading their Bibles. And the fervor of faith got bigger: May I read my Bible during lunch? No? Okay, I'll read it when I get home.

M- Blind Man - Mark 8

T- Transfiguration - Mark 9

Th-Test

About Math 1&2: you might wonder why we do not do every single page of math workbook. We've been learning math by playing games (uno cards taking out the wilds, etc), various math games from Teachers Pay Teachers, whole group with Pooh Bear and with partners and whiteboards. Rather than tossing extra pages in the recycle bin I typically send the extra sheets in the pack for the kiddos who like to play school....or if they could benefit from extra review, that's great too!

MATH 1: Test on plus one facts this week Wednesday, New concept is on minus 1

MATH 2: Sums that equal 12 and Venn Diagrams, writing the date using digits

ART: We'll be working with green acrylic paint this Wednesday to make a forest. (Yes, I have washable paint but it's too transparent for this project.) I could use 6 more large paint shirts, anybody have some extra old shirts for donation?

~~ From Mrs. Kooiman ~~

Last week was an exciting week for 5th and 6th grade. In language arts, we wrote letters to students at Christian schools in Randolph, Wisconsin and Bogota, Colombia. In science, we had a lot of fun while creating our own electromagnets. Congrats to the group who was able to get a class high of 22 paper clips to stay attached! We also began building our own solar-powered water heaters, which will be continued this week. Students used great critical thinking skills in their designs and are very excited to continue this. We are still looking for 4 more large plastic bottles by Tuesday, if you happen to have any at home. Thank you to those of you who contributed supplies already!

We have no extra assessments this week, so I encourage students to study well for spelling and Bible memory. Have a great week!

This past week, we welcomed a guest speaker, Rev Vanderlinde, to our class. He shared his love and passion for reading, which aligned well with our recent literacy lessons. Key takeaways included that reading is enjoyable, inspiring, and develops a discerning mind. Students are encouraged to read widely and have fun with it.

All students need to connect with their reading buddy to decide on book characters they will dress up as for our Book Character Dress Up Day breakfast. Parents, please check with your child about this and provide guidance as needed.

For our final writing assignment this term, students will be reflecting on their progress and setting goals for term 2. This includes discussing what they accomplished this past term and establishing new objectives.
